MEMORANDUM FOR: Director, FBIS

FROM: Chief, London Bureau

THROUGH: Chief, Operations Group

SUBJECT: Monthly Report--London Bureau--June 1983

I. GENERAL

The event of the year--and a first for the Monitoring Service--was the meeting of the BBC Board of Governors and Board of Management at Caversham Park on 23 June. Bureau Chief [ ] was invited to meet the dignitaries, including retiring Chairman George Howard and Chairman-Designate Stuart Young, at cocktails preceding the luncheon in the conference room. The grounds were spruced up for the occasion, floral arrangements graced the entry hall and canteen, the newly arrived Roset cable (all 5,000 pounds of it) was discreetly secreted behind shrubbery, and new roofing over the chapel area was completed and the rubbish whisked away. The weather cooperated--overcast but no rain, at least not until after the ceremonial planting of three trees by the governors, the culmination of the day's activities.

STAT

The local media were preoccupied much of the month predicting the outcome and assessing the results of the 9 June British elections and the continuing maneuvers over leadership of the Labor Party.

II. OPERATIONS

Monitorial/Editorial

1. The editorial and PMU staffs were both hard-pressed by the two-day CPSU Central Committee plenum followed by the USSR Supreme Soviet session, at which Andropov was elected chairman of the Presidium. The editors were hit almost at the same time by Polish events, the eight-day visit to Poland by the Pope followed by meetings of the Sejm. Both events produced great quantities of paper--speeches, reports, and service messages--with the papal visit, in editorial eyes, emerging as the clear winner.

2. PMU's newsbreaks are not yet routine, but the pressfax IZVESTIYA ✓ was the first source for the text of the statement on the Eastern bloc meeting in Moscow on 28 June. The statement and the list of delegates were processed and filed by a PMU team half an hour before the material began coming in from TASS.

Technical

1. New BBC Chief Engineer [ ] replacing [ ] was immediately initiated into the Roset arena as he began making arrangements for laying the cable from the dish to the Dish Control Room. STAT
2. Bureau communicators spent the month training on the new Facit equipment which will be replacing the DSTE. The quality of the printout is excellent, impressing bureau and BBC personnel, but the control facilities are a step backward from the failsafe DSTE.
3. The bureau experienced a five-hour downtime on its own switch on 25 June, with Washington in turn covering for London. On 15 June the Nicosia standby circuit was activated for two days, adding 700 incoming-outgoing messages to the bureau's own heavy traffic at the time of the CPSU plenum and the Supreme Soviet session.

III. ADMINISTRATION

1. Personnel changeover time was highlighted with the arrival on 28 June of London Bureau Chief-designate [ ]. In the second of four summer editorial changes, Senior Editor [ ] arrived 3 June on PCS from Washington replacing [ ] arrived earlier, replacing [ ]. STAT
STAT
2. [ ] arrived in [ ] Tel Aviv on 24 June for a summer TDY to fill in for [ ] and Associate Editor [ ] went to Abidjan on 8 June on a fill-in TDY until 12 August. Another associate editor, [ ], is on extended sick leave convalescing after surgery. STAT

IV. VISITS

The summer visitor season burst into full bloom along with British gardens and wild rhododendrons. Leading the pack was AG USSR/EE Branch Chief [redacted] on TDY 2 June. Okinawa Bureau Cruiser [redacted] visited the bureau on the 8th while in England on leave. Gulf Bureau Chief-designate [redacted] was on TDY 16-17 June, followed by DRD Chief [redacted] on TDY 27-29 June. Abidjan Bureau monitor [redacted] paid a TDY visit on 29 June while in England on leave. Other official visitors included a safety inspector on 6 June, and Headquarters auditors on 31 May-1 June.

STAT

In the other direction, Senior Wireroom Supervisor [redacted] spent a profitable three days on TDY at Headquarters 6-9 June for briefings on various aspects of MIDAS, Daily Report operations, and functions of other components.

office was used for the Governors' meeting.

"The Governors have taken a keen interest in our modernisation plans, which they approved in January, and in a sense the planting of the trees can be seen as confirming the BBC's long-term commitment to the future of the Monitoring Service at Caversham."

"The hope must be that by the year 2100 the new cedars will look as splendid as those fine specimens planted 150 years ago."

The plans for the modernisation of Caversham Park include the installation of a computer system and equipment for the monitoring of satellite broadcasts as well as the refurbishment and extension of the main building which was once the country mansion of a Welsh iron-master.

A final decision on the funding of the plans is expected from Whitehall later this year.

by ANDREA MICHELL

The teachers' report, Popular TV and Schoolchildren, published last week, was a useful addition to the body of information about the effects of television on children, said BBC Director-General Alasdair Milne.

The BBC had noted its points and discussed them with senior Government ministers.

But, Alasdair Milne stressed, the Government-backed report, commissioned by Sir Keith Joseph, used a very small sample and drew on a narrow range of experience.

Fifteen teachers spent five weeks looking at television and then asked their pupils what they liked to watch.

Understanding

"In some ways," said Alasdair Milne, "the comments of the children themselves incorporated in the report show better understanding of the situations portrayed and give more illuminating views than those of their elders."

He also pointed out that the BBC already had a General Advisory Council, Regional Advisory Councils, a Continuing Education Council, Schools Advisory Council and Local Radio Councils advising on this aspect of output.

The teachers' report claimed it found little evidence among TV producers of "a concerned awareness of just how powerful an influence their

Radio Medway is to participate in a major experiment aimed at preventing traffic jams and accidents.

And after being on air since 1970, the local radio station is also changing its name to Radio Kent — giving it a county image — to coincide with the experiment, which also involves the IBA, the Royal Automobile Club and the Department of Transport.

by MARGARET HEIGHTON

"This trial scheme aims to achieve easier and safer journeys for the millions of people using our major roads," said Lynda Chalker, Transport Under-Secretary, last week.

Harold Rogers, Radio Medway's manager since its opening, and programme organiser Clive Lawrence have the task of not only holding the attention of through travellers waiting for traffic news, but also ensuring the experiment will not be annoying to non-driving regular listeners.

"The key to success," said Clive Lawrence, "is giving the latest traffic news in an informal manner, while maintaining entertaining programmes."

Identity jingle

To help the entertainment along Radio Kent has a brand-new package of identity jingles composed and performed by Gordon Giltrap and called The Garden of England.

Radio Kent's expansion eastward to become the BBC's latest "county" station will take place over the next few months. A mini-radio station with its own studios and staff at Canterbury will provide a daily opt-out from the main Radio Kent programmes for local news and information, in the manner of Radio Funnies.

Small news studios at Folkestone and Thanet are also in train. And the picture will be completed in two years' time when Radio Kent's staff at Chatham move into a new purpose-built station headquarters at Sun Wharf, on the river bank not far from Radio Medway's present home in a former newspaper office.

Said station manager Harold Rogers: "This is an exciting and challenging time for all of us at Radio Kent. We have a large and loyal audience at present. But we have to build on that success, and satisfy the needs of the whole county. I'm confident we can achieve that ambition."

One consequence of the travel news experiment will be longer hours on the air. Radio Kent will be broadcasting until 10pm every day except Friday, when it will keep going with special programmes and travel news until midnight for the benefit of weekend commuters.

For the hand-over from Radio Medway to Radio Kent, however, the situation is using a vehicle of a different kind. The station will broadcast through the night on Friday, and early Saturday morning John Thurston will inaugurate Radio Kent — broadcasting live from the basket of a balloon in flight — another "first" for local radio.

John and the station's engineer-in-charge, Colin Grant, are passengers in the balloon which is acting as quarry in an Anglo-French balloon chase to celebrate 200 years of human flight.

By a curious coincidence, the event the race commemorates — the first balloon ascent in England with human passengers — was from the garden of a London house belonging to Lord Foley, in 1783. The site of Lord Foley's garden is now occupied by the Langham, on the site of which the BBC's New Broadcasting Centre is projected to rise up in the next few years.

Growth at Monitoring

by CHRIS STENT

Outgoing BBC Chairman, the newly ennobled George Howard, together with Chairman designate Stuart Young and Director-General Alasdair Milne, took time out from a Board of Governors meeting at Caversham Park last week to plant three young cedar trees.

The planting marked the first meeting of the BBC's Board of Governors ever to be held at Caversham, which houses the BBC's Monitoring Service, and the new trees were planted in place of those lost in previous harsh winters.

"It was a unique occasion for Caversham," said Monitoring Service head David Witherow whose
